

art project

27TH ANNUAL
SYMPOSIUM ON SEA TURTLE BIOLOGY AND CONSERVATION

Learn about sea turtles and display your art work at the Annual Sea Turtle Symposium

Imagine

Every year sea turtles from around the world gather to discuss their favorite topic: Sea turtles! This year more than 1000 people will get together for the 27th Sea Turtle Symposium being held in Myrtle Beach, South Carolina (February 24th - 28th 2007). We are inviting students to inspire the world's sea turtle biologists and enthusiasts with their imagination and creativity!

Work with any group or class at your school (homeschoolers welcome!) to create artwork that shows your passion for sea turtles. Artwork must be on 18 by 24 inch poster board and may be created using any media. Include your school name, class, city, state and country in the margins, or incorporate them into your artwork.

Create

Ideas for creating artwork:

- Depict the dangers that sea turtles face;
- Show steps people can take to protect sea turtles;
- Portray your passion for sea turtles and the marine environment;
- Use your imagination and have fun!

Please post completed artwork to the address below by February 15th 2007 to ensure that it arrives in time for the symposium. All submissions will be displayed at the convention center throughout the symposium and we will post our favorites online. For photos of the display, include an e-mail address on the back of your submission or on a separate piece of paper. Please note that artwork will not be returned.

Inspire

Please join us at the Kingston Plantation in Myrtle Beach on Saturday, February 24th 2007 for a public event. See your artwork on display, visit a live sea turtle and learn more about sea turtles. Visit SEATURTLE.ORG for more details. If you have any questions please contact art_project@seaturtle.org.

What you need:

- 18 x 24 inch poster board
- any media
- large envelope & postage
- Educators Guide:
<http://www.seaturtle.org/>

Send completed artwork to:

Deadline: February 15 2007

SEATURTLE.ORG
1 Southampton Place
Durham, NC 27705
USA

